

Reading with Mr Faers

Greedy Dan

"I need food!" said Dan the dog one morning.
He went into the kitchen and looked around.
"Mmmm! A tray of sandwiches!" he said.

He stood up on his back legs and took one from the tray.
Keeping it between his teeth,
he ran out of the house at top speed.

It's time to read our story for the third time!

The gingerbread man

Hands, legs, a head ...
Six currants for buttons ...
and the last gingerbread man was finished!

Ann put down the bag of currants.
Her husband Seth pushed the tin of gingerbread men into the hot oven.
That was when the last gingerbread man ... winked!

“I think I will get them out of the oven,”
said Seth at six o’clock.

He pulled the tin out, sniffed,
and bit off a bit of leg.

“Well, I have got to test them,” he said.
“Mmmm! Fresh and crisp! Not bad!”

He left the tin next to the bread bin,
with a cloth spread on top.

The last gingerbread man lifted his sticky head
off the bottom of the tin.

He lifted the cloth. He lifted his legs – and jumped out!

He ran out of the kitchen!

“Stop!” yelled Seth.

“Stop!” yelled Ann.

He ran from Seth and Ann, singing,

“Run, run, as fast as you can!

You can’t catch me.

I am the gingerbread man!”

Ann's black cat Lucky began to run as well.

"Stop!" yelled Seth.
"Stop!" yelled Ann.
"Stop!" yelled Lucky.
But the gingerbread man ran on.

"Run, run, as fast as you can!
You can't catch me. I am the gingerbread man!"

Seth's fat dog Bonzo began to run as well.
"Stop!" gasped Seth. "Stop!" gasped Ann.
"Stop!" gasped Lucky. "Stop!" gasped Bonzo.
They ran so fast that their legs felt like lead.
They had to stop to rest.

But the gingerbread man ran on.
"Run, run, as fast as you can!
You can't catch me.
I am the gingerbread man!"

Then the crafty old fox began to run.

“Stop!” he yelled. “Let me help you, gingerbread man!”

He licked his lips.

The gingerbread man stopped running and grinned at the crafty old fox.

“Well, thanks!” he said.

The fox led him along a dusty track.
At the end of it was his den.
The crafty old fox licked his lips ...
and that was the end of the gingerbread man!

Lets play questions to talk about

I'll read the story and ask a question for each page

The gingerbread man

What did the gingerbread man do as he was put in the oven?

Hands, legs, a head ...
Six currants for buttons ...
and the last gingerbread man was finished!

Ann put down the bag of currants.
Her husband Seth pushed the tin of gingerbread men into the hot oven.
That was when the last gingerbread man ... winked!

"I think I will get them out of the oven,"
said Seth at six o'clock.

How did Seth test whether the gingerbread men were ready to eat?

He pulled the tin out, sniffed,
and bit off a bit of leg.

"Well, I have got to test them," he said.
"Mmmm! Fresh and crisp! Not bad!"

He left the tin next to the bread bin,
with a cloth spread on top.

Why did the gingerbread man run away?

The last gingerbread man lifted his sticky head
off the bottom of the tin.

He lifted the cloth. He lifted his legs – and jumped out!

He ran out of the kitchen!

“Stop!” yelled Seth.

“Stop!” yelled Ann.

He ran from Seth and Ann, singing,

“Run, run, as fast as you can!

You can’t catch me.

I am the gingerbread man!”

Ann's black cat Lucky began to run as well.

"Stop!" yelled Seth.
"Stop!" yelled Ann.
"Stop!" yelled Lucky.
But the gingerbread man ran on.

"Run, run, as fast as you can!
You can't catch me. I am the gingerbread man!"

Who else started running after the gingerbread man?

Why did they stop to rest?

Seth's fat dog Bonzo began to run as well.
"Stop!" gasped Seth. "Stop!" gasped Ann.
"Stop!" gasped Lucky. "Stop!" gasped Bonzo.
They ran so fast that their legs felt like lead.
They had to stop to rest.

But the gingerbread man ran on.
"Run, run, as fast as you can!
You can't catch me.
I am the gingerbread man!"

Who did the gingerbread man meet?

Then the crafty old fox began to run.

“Stop!” he yelled. “Let me help you, gingerbread man!”

He licked his lips.

The gingerbread man stopped running and grinned at the crafty old fox.

“Well, thanks!” he said.

Why did the crafty old fox lick his lips?

The fox led him along a dusty track.
At the end of it was his den.
The crafty old fox licked his lips ...
and that was the end of the gingerbread man!
