Model Text – Recount

Yesterday evening, I set off to see if I could catch a sighting of the rare wild boar that roamed my local woodland. Daylight was turning to dusk and the temperature was dropping as I entered the wide wood. I knew the signs: scratched bark at pig height, patches of dug up earth especially near bulbs, the sound of snorting, trotter prints in the mud, short wiry black hair and unmissable snouts! At least, that was what I expected.
